Why the Chesterfield Post?

The Chesterfield Post is not simply another online news website - a subsidiary of a faceless corporate giant which, by default, adds a website as an afterthought to their company's portfolio, then fills it with advertising forgetting that "content is king"! Nothing can be further from the truth.

This is a labour of love for a born and bred Chesterfield lass, who has the life and soul of Chesterfield at heart, and wants to enable the rest of Chesterfield and the immediate area to be able to access and open lines of communication with the Newsmakers, the MP's, the Councillors, the Mayor, the Sports clubs, the Business community, the older generation, mums and dads, teenagers, children - everyone and anyone that has an interest in their home town.

The Chesterfield Post does this by bringing you truly local news and interviews with all the people you really want to hear from. News events and stories as they break, sports coverage with all our local sports clubs getting involved, regular interviews with our Mayor and MP's, asking questions you would like put to them, support and coverage of local events, reviews of all the things you want to see reviewed such as films, clubs, live gigs, restaurants, theatre. It's all here.

Local businesses get great advertising exposure directly to their customers, with not only the chance to simply advertise across the site, but also to use their own unique 'advertorial' pages, bringing the opportunity to let us know their latest news too, giving us a bit more insight in to what's going on behind the scenes with our local business community, big and small.

The Chesterfield Post also carries regular recorded Audio and Video news bulletins.

We are also happy to give the chance for people to become regular contributors to the Post, with our experienced reporters, a few 'cub' reporters flexing their journalistic ambitions while getting some live experience - and some veterans with major bylines to their name, we're able to allow anyone who has something worthwhile to say, the chance to say it, some of whom may become regular columnists if they prove their worth to our 'readership'.

This is an exciting opportunity for the Town, and we hope you will join us for the ride.

Message from The Editor

The aim of The Chesterfield Post is to be a multi-faceted, online, rolling media resource.

It's unique to Chesterfield - our aim being to 'get out there' and report on all things Chesterfield - the 'bus-stop' chatter - the things that really matter to the local communities and people in and around Chesterfield.

Where do people regularly hear from the local MP's? The Mayor? The Councillors who make decisions every day about how our money is spent? The local Community and Charity events and associations?

That's where The Chesterfield Post comes in! We are providing:

- News, both local and national, with a real community feel and a chance for people to really get their teeth into what's happening AND hear the views of all parties involved.
- We provide extensive sports coverage, for our local Football Clubs, large and small, Rugby Club, Cricket and all sporting clubs or associations that wish to be included and involved.
- Pages for our younger generation to discuss and review gigs, films and clubs, or wining, dining and Theatre reviews for the older 'kids'.
- Schools and Colleges pages to discuss all the good (and not so good if necessary) things they're doing along with other public service and Jobs pages.
- All this supplied as text and whenever possible, Audio and Video.

All this online and Interactive.

Many people would enjoy the chance to see their writing reach a real audience. How many students are wanting to be journalists? The Chesterfield Post can start them off with a byline and experience alongside our experienced Journalistic team.

All our stories are posted as a linked headline to our Social Network pages, enabling readers to comment and get involved with what we're writing about.

We are also uploading audio and video articles so visitors can hear and see for themselves the views of people in key positions.

It is a 'one-stop' Chesterfield magazine for everyone, covering all aspects of local life and news, with as much community involvement as possible.

For the community, with the Community and by the community, The Chesterfield Post is “Getting Chesterfield Talking”!

SPONSORSHIP PACKAGES

Our fantastic new SECTION SPONSORSHIP Packages - both Standard and Premium - are appropriate to our larger businesses, especially those who maybe have a link to a sports club, whether as a supporter or sponsor - or if your service or product is relevant to the subject of another section, for example a Pharmacy for the Hospital/Medical section or maybe a Security product for the Police news section.

This package carries your message across entire Sections of The Chesterfield Post - over which your branding and adverts are prominent and ever-present - with text links in your sponsored sections headlines that are carried on other pages - as well as on all related posts to our Social Network pages.

The exposure for the Section Sponsorships is truly amazing - and even more amazing - the cost for these packages start from under £80 per month for the Standard Sponsorships and under £200 per month for the Premium Sponsorship! Compare that to a double or full page in the printed press!

Call Mark on 07821 510 005 for full details and availability.

'ADVERTORIAL' PAGES

The Chesterfield Post offers the chance for businesses to use their own 'Advertorial' page.

This is an opportunity to not only advertise your business, club or pastime, but to gain a regular 'audience' with your own exclusive page, updated as often as you like.

Other adverts will still display on that page, but that pages Advertiser has first and exclusive choice of any one of the advertising positions. The Chesterfield Post would then fill all remaining spaces with other advertising, barring conflicts of content or direct competition with the page Advertisers business.

The page can include text, images, video and audio suitable for purpose, (content subject to terms agreed).

It's a great way to have a web presence if you don't have a website already, or even to boost traffic if you do - an easy way to reach a ready made, new audience!

CHARITY EDITORIAL Pages

The Chesterfield Post also offers the chance for Charities to have an advertorial page - FOR FREE!

This is specifically for registered charities who don't have a business to advertise, but have too much to say about their Charity to use the messageboard. This would be subject to terms regarding suitable content, but the user would have their own page for content regarding their charity. Advertising is still sold for these pages as normal.

With this in mind, rates for Charity Editorials are FREE.

NOTE: NO direct advertising within the content for any businesses is allowed on these pages, without prior permission from The Chesterfield Post and the page will be terminated with no refund if this condition is abused.

PUBLIC EDITORIAL Pages

Members of the public can also 'buy their own page'.

This is for those people who don't have a business to advertise, but would like to gain exposure for their club, association, hobbies or interests.

Again, this would be subject to terms regarding suitable content, but the user would have their own page for their content. Advertising is still sold for these pages as normal.

With this in mind, rates for Public Editorials are lower.

NOTE: NO direct advertising within the content for any businesses will be allowed on these pages and the page will be terminated with no refund if this condition is abused.

At times you will be asked to submit personal information about yourself (name, email address, postcode etc.). By entering your details in the fields as requested you enable The Post to provide you with the services you select. Whenever you provide such personal information, The Post will treat that information in accordance with this notice and policy. All email correspondence includes instructions on how to 'unsubscribe' from the service to which you have subscribed. The Post will act in accordance with current legislation. This notice and policy do not apply to companies that The Post does not own or control.

2. Use of Data. The Post will use your personal details and information it obtains from other sources to provide you with its services, for administration and customer services, for marketing, to analyse your preferences and to ensure that the content, services and advertising that it offers are tailored to your needs and interests. The Post may keep your information for a reasonable period for these purposes. The Post may need to share your information with its service providers and with other associated companies for these purposes. The Post may disclose personal data in order to comply with a legal or regulatory obligation.

3. What are Cookies? Cookies are small pieces of information that a website might store on your computer or access device. They allow websites to remember who you are. Typically your browser will store each cookie as a small text file. A cookie will always contain the domain name of the originating website. For security, only the originating website has permission to read the cookie.

4. How Cookies are Used. When you log in to the Website the Post will set a cookie containing a randomly generated unique reference number. This anonymous number allows the Post to identify you. The Post will never store your personal information directly as a cookie. By default, user cookies will be session cookies. Session cookies are automatically deleted when you close your browser. To be recognised on your next visit to the Website you will have to log in once more. If, as you log in, you tick the checkbox labelled "Remember me on this computer", a persistent cookie will be set. Persistent cookies are not deleted when you close your browser, and will allow the Website to recognise you on your next visit. The use of persistent cookies is not advised on shared computers (such as in web cafes, schools, colleges, universities or public libraries).

5. The Edition Date. The Post also uses cookies to store the edition date when you access archived pages of the Website. Sometimes the Post might use cookies to store simple pieces of information such as whether or not you have voted in an opinion poll.

6. Why does the Post use Cookies? Cookies allow the Post to see how the Website is being used. This information forms the basis of future development work, and so enables the Post to continually improve its Website to best suit its users. They also allow the website to remember you when you log-in.

7. Third Party Cookies. Some of the advertisements you see on the website are generated by third parties. Some of these third parties generate their own cookies to track how many people have seen a particular advertisement and to track how many people have seen it more than once. These cookies cannot be used to identify an individual; they can only be used for statistical purposes, for example, in providing you with advertisements that are more relevant to your interests. Some of the information from third party cookies will be brought together with other anonymous information for statistical purposes. The third party companies that generate these cookies have their own privacy policies. Other than allowing these cookies to be served, we have no role to play whatsoever in these cookies (although we may use statistical information arising from these third party cookies and provided to us by third parties, to improve the targeting of advertisements to users of the website).

8. Disabling Cookies. Cookies can be easily deleted or disabled at any time through your browser's preference menus so please refer to the instructions for your file management software to locate the file or directory that stores cookies. Please be aware that if you do choose to disable cookies you may not be able to fully access certain areas of the Website. If you would like to disable "third party" cookies generated by advertisers or providers of targeted advertising services, you can turn them off by going to the third party's website and getting them to generate a one-time "no thanks" cookie that will stop any further cookies being written to your machine.

9. IP Address. When you visit our site, we may also log your IP address, a unique identifier for your computer or other access device.

10. Credit References. In assessing your application for credit, to prevent fraud, to check your identity and to prevent money laundering, the Post may search the files of credit reference agencies who will record any credit searches on your file. This may include using N2Check or an equivalent company. The Post may also disclose details of how you conduct your account to such agencies. The information will be used by other credit grantors for making credit decisions about you and the people with whom you are financially associated, for fraud prevention, money laundering prevention and occasionally for tracing debtors. Information used for these purposes will include publicly available information such as electoral roll, county court judgments, bankruptcy orders or repossessions.

11. Credit Reference Agencies. The Post may ask credit reference agencies to provide a credit scoring computation. Credit scoring uses a number of factors to work out risks involved in any application. A score is given to each factor and a total score obtained. Where automatic credit scoring computations are used, acceptance or rejection of your application will not depend only on the results of the credit scoring process.

12. Sharing Data. The Post may also share your information with its business partners in the travel, property, automotive, financial services, leisure, entertainment, advertising, media, retail and mail order business for marketing purposes or it may send you information about other organisations' goods and services. The Post may contact you by mail, telephone, fax, e-mail or other electronic messaging service with offers of goods and services or information that may be of interest to you. By providing the Post with your fax number, land line and/or mobile telephone numbers or email address, you consent to being contacted by these methods for these purposes. If you do not wish to receive marketing information from the Post or from the Post's business associates, tick the appropriate box on the form you complete.

13. Third Party Data. If you provide the Post with information about another person, you confirm that they have appointed you to act for them, to consent to the processing of their personal data including sensitive personal data and that you have informed them of the Post's identity and the purposes (as set out above) for which their personal data will be processed.

14. Links to Third Party Sites. The Post links to a wide variety of other sites and it displays advertisements from third parties on the Website. The Post is not responsible for the content or privacy policies of these sites and third party advertisers, nor for the way in which information about their users is treated. In particular, unless expressly stated, the Post is not an agent for these sites or advertisers nor is it authorised to make representations on their behalf.

15. Requests. You are entitled to ask for a copy of the information the Post holds about you (for which the Post may charge a small fee) and to have any inaccuracies in your information corrected. If you wish to exercise your rights to this information please forward your request, in writing, to The Chesterfield Post.

16. Changes to this Policy. This data protection notice may change and therefore you should review it regularly. The Post will of course notify you of any changes where we are required to do so.
